The Closet Kills

By Boyce Hinman, Chief Lobbyist

In his 1933 inaugural address President Franklin D. Roosevelt said, "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself." Our country was in the depth of the Great Depression. Roosevelt apparently meant that we should not become so paralyzed with fear that we are unable to do what is necessary to solve the problems faced by the nation.

This year Assemblymember Leno (D-San Francisco) introduced AB 1967, a bill that would allow same-sex couples to obtain marriages in California. In a very real way, the fear of many of us to come out of the closet nearly killed this bill.

Routinely AB 1967 would have been referred to an Assembly policy committee for a hearing and a vote on the merits of the bill. Over 1,200 other bills were introduced in the Assembly this year. Almost all of them were referred to a policy committee without any controversy. However, up until the last possible moment, it appeared that AB 1967 might not be referred. If that happened, the bill would have died without even the courtesy of a hearing on the merits of the bill.

Why did this happen? Apparently legislators were afraid to come anywhere near such a bill, especially during an election year. Many of them were afraid to anger our community by voting against the bill. They were even more afraid of angering the general public by voting for the bill. The best way to avoid these twin perils was to let the bill die without any hearing or vote.

There was reason for their fears. Public opinion polls show that a majority of Americans still disapprove of letting same-sex couples marry. And yet a recent Los Angeles Times poll found the public has become much more supportive of lesbians and gays in other ways. Seven in 10 Americans would not be troubled if their elementary school child had a gay or lesbian teacher. Six in 10 say they are sympathetic to the gay community. Sixty-nine percent of those polled by the Times said they know someone who is lesbian or gay. And the survey found that people who know lesbians or gays are much more likely to be supportive of our community.

Coming out of the closet is a political act. It directly affects the advancement of the rights of the lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and intersex community. People who know us support our rights. Those of us who lobby at the State Capitol can do a lot. But if a paralyzing fear keeps most of those in our community in the closet, what we can do in Sacramento will always be limited. The general public won't ever know the people of our community. Their fear of us will be slow to change. And the politicians will be slow to support our rights for fear of angering the voters who fear us.

Are you out to your family and friends? Are you out at work or at your house of worship? Each person's situation is different. For some it would be really dangerous to come out of the closet. They should not do so. But a key ingredient of our civil rights movement is for as many of us to come out of the closet as possible. When most of us do that, the public will lose their fear of us and politicians will lose their fear of treating us with respect. ✉

Support International Same-Sex Couples

By Boyce Hinman, Chief Lobbyist

With more and more people traveling overseas, it becomes inevitable that some meet and fall in love with citizens of other countries. Long-distance romances are hard to maintain.

For heterosexual couples there is an easy solution: A US citizen can marry his or her foreign partner. US law grants that partner legal permanent residence in this country. However, the law does not allow American citizens to do this for their same-sex partners.

Senator Patrick Leahy (D-VT) has introduced S 1510 in the US Senate. Called the Permanent Partners Immigration Act, the purpose of the bill is to allow US citizens to obtain permanent residency for their domestic partners who are currently citizens of another nation.

Adam Francoeur, program director of the Lesbian and Gay Immigration Rights Task Force based in New York, estimated an initial surge of up to 20,000 people would seek residency visas if S 1510 became law. He thought the number of applicants then would drop to about 1,000 a year.

S 1510 was referred to the Immigration Subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee on July 31, 2003. It has been there ever since.

Assemblymember Sally Lieber (D-San Jose) has introduced Assembly Joint Resolution (AJR) 60, which urges Congress to pass the Permanent Partners Immigration Act. We expect AJR 60 to arrive on the Assembly floor in May.

Please write to your Assemblymember and urge him or her to vote for this important bill. ✉

Support Clean Needle Exchange Programs

By Jamie E. Shauvin, Legislative Analyst

According to the Department of Health Services, California now spends over $315 million each year on services to people with HIV/AIDS.

As of December 2002, there were 123,819 cumulative cases of HIV and AIDS reported in California since the outbreak of the epidemic.

The Department of Health Services also reports that just shy of 20 percent of all cases of HIV infection are related to the sharing of dirty needles by intravenous drug users.

Reducing the sharing of dirty needles significantly could have a huge impact on the spread of HIV/AIDS. A reduction in sharing dirty needles would probably do much to lower the state's cost of treating the disease.

Existing law requires a person to establish his or her identity properly in order to purchase a needle or syringe and for pharmacists to keep detailed records of nonprescription sales of hypodermic needles and syringes.

To change this situation, SB 1159 would authorize the sale or furnishing of hypodermic needles or syringes to a person for human use without a prescription if the person is known to the furnisher and has previously provided a prescription or other proof of legitimate medical need.

SB 1159 would eliminate the requirement that pharmacists keep detailed records of such sales. The bill would also authorize a person to possess 10 or fewer hypodermic needles or syringes if acquired through an authorized source.

Introduced by California State Senator John Vasconcellos (D-San Jose), SB 1159 was successfully passed by the California Senate Health and Human Services Committee. The bill has been referred to the Senate Committee on Environmental Quality for a vote on April 19.

Assuming that this committee also passes this bill, we need you to contact your state senators and ask for their support when the bill comes up for a vote.

SB 1159 could do a lot to slow the spread of serious blood-borne diseases. That, in turn, could greatly reduce the current projected health services costs to the state of caring for people with these diseases.

Please write to your state senator, urging him or her to approve SB 1159. ✉

Help Victims of Domestic Violence Seek Justice

By Kathleen Watanabe, Legislative Analyst

Domestic violence has been a serious, pervasive problem in this country. During the past decade, women's and domestic violence advocacy groups have made many inroads in assisting domestic violence victims, who are primarily women. They have succeeded in getting programs and new laws implemented that would protect victims, punish perpetrators, and educate the public. However, one area that is quite often forgotten or misunderstood is the situation where persistent battering has driven a victim to commit a serious crime.

From 1992 to the present, both legislation and case law in California have addressed issues of battering and its effects on victims. In 1992, Evidence Code section 1107 was added to allow expert testimony on battered women's syndrome in a criminal action. In 2001, the legislature passed SB 799, which expanded the law to allow imprisoned victims of domestic violence—convicted prior to 1992 of homicide for killing their abusive partners—an opportunity to seek a retrial or reduction of their sentence. It enabled them to bring writs of habeas corpus based on the premise that had evidence of battering and its effects been admitted at trial, it would have changed the outcome of their cases.

The current laws still have many shortcomings, however. Senator John Burton (D—San Francisco) has now introduced SB 1385, which would correct weaknesses in the law. Current law excludes people convicted of offenses occurring between 1992 and August 29, 1996. Why these dates? On that date in 1996 the California Supreme Court decided the case of People v. Humphrey. They ruled that evidence of battered women's syndrome may be introduced so that a jury can understand the circumstances in which the defendant found herself at the time she killed her abuser and judge the reasonableness of her belief that the killing was necessary. As a result, however, those who were convicted of offenses occurring between 1992, when Evidence Code section 1107 was first added, and August 29, 1996, when the Court decided People v. Humphrey, were left out of the benefit of that decision. SB 1385 would correct the law to include these overlooked victims.

Current law only applies to a narrow class of convicted survivors. It applies to those convicted of homicide of their abusers. It does not apply to those persons convicted of other crimes, even if those crimes were related directly to their experience of being battered. An example would be a battered victim who was coerced by her abuser to commit a crime. SB 1385 would expand the law to include these instances.

Expand Access to Life-Saving Drugs for Uninsured

By Marty Martinez, Legislative Analyst

Even with recent federal legislation creating a prescription drug benefit for seniors, 52 million Americans lack access to drugs that are necessary to ensure their health. For these uninsured populations, the lack of access to affordable prescription drugs continues to impact their healthcare.

As the backbone of California's healthcare safety net, primary care clinics see largely low-income and uninsured populations. These patients are in need of comprehensive and affordable healthcare, including access to affordable drugs. Often clinics provide patients with pharmaceuticals but their resources to do so are limited because they are usually not reimbursed by the government or any other entity.

SB 1563 by Martha Escutia (D—Norwalk) will continue to enable clinics to provide affordable prescription drugs for their patients. With drug prices comprising an increasing portion of clinics' budgets, it is important that these "open door" providers have access to affordable drugs. This bill stipulates that before drug sellers enter into a contract with state or local governments, they must commit to offering to sell medications to clinics that care for the poor at prices that do not exceed the discounted price specified under federal law, with regard to certain drugs.

The bill would also require the wholesaler or manufacturer to disclose a list of prices to those clinics upon request. All of this could do much to help these clinics serve the poor. Please write to your senator in support of SB 1563.

Current law has a sunset date of January 1, 2010, in which the writs of habeas corpus could be brought for cases prior to 1992. SB 1385 would remove that sunset date.

Finally, SB 1385 would amend the current terminology of "battered women's syndrome" to "battering and its effects." The term "battered women's syndrome" perpetuates negative stereotypes that harm the victims of battering. It implies that an abused person must be a woman, that she must be suffering from a syndrome or disease that is curable, and that there is only one authentic version of how she is supposed to respond to the battering. In reality, victims can be men, and battering and its effects can have varying physical, emotional, economic, psychological, and social consequences. Since the mid-1990s, "battering and its effects" has become the standard term used by the legal and domestic violence communities.

Please write to members of the Assembly Public Safety Committee and urge them to approve SB 1385.

May Legislative Update

Each bill introduced in the state legislature must be reviewed by a policy committee in each house before the full Assembly and Senate can vote on them.

The Assembly Health Committee is one such example of a policy committee. The job of the policy committee is to decide if the bill makes sense from a policy standpoint.

Any bill expected to cost the state or local governments $100,000 or more per year must also be voted on by the Appropriations Committee of each house before the full house can vote on it. A bill costing that much is called a "fiscal bill."

There are deadlines for getting through the policy committees. All fiscal bills must be approved by the policy committee of the house in which they were introduced by no later than April 23.

Non-fiscal bills must be approved by the policy committee of the house in which they were introduced by no later than May 7. Then all fiscal bills must be approved by the Appropriations Committee in the bill's house of origin no later than May 21.

The purpose of these deadlines is to ensure that bills move forward in time to be passed before the legislature closes for the year. Any bill missing these deadlines dies. No further action is permitted on the bill unless its author gets a waiver of the rules.
